

Assembling Folding Space-Station Interior "H"

The Hydroponics Area

This module contains the hydroponics bays -- rows of plants that clean the station's atmosphere and provide fresh vegetables now and then. How adventurous can you be with a bunch of plants? Well, doing something bad to those plants would cause a slow but certain crisis on the station. Plants have been known to mutate into less benign life forms, or into medicinal herbs that are amazingly useful (and valuable). And the many narrow corridors would be a great place for someone to hide...

Print three copies of the long-wall and short-wall pages, and one copy of the floor. This will give you nine 'ponics bays, but you need only eight; discard the extra, or add it to an empty room in some other interior.

Assemble the walls and floor just like any of the other space-station interiors, with one important exception: two of the long folding walls are attached so the wall runs down the middle of a row of squares, instead of down the line between squares like every other wall in the station. The white outlines on the floor show where the wall sections should go.

Glue the 'ponics bays onto the floors and walls. It looks like this when done:

```
#####
+ + + #
#+-|-|-|-+#+
hl hl hlh #
hl hl hlh #
hl hl hlh #      "+" are doors
#+-|-|-|-+#+      "h" are hydroponics bays
hl hl hlh #

```

```
#+-|+-|+-|+
+  +  +  #

The outer walls from the SFINT6 module are the best to use with this interior.
