

Miniatures in Paper Showcase!

Science Fiction Soldiers and Warriors

About the showcase

Miniatures in Paper is a bi-monthly event started by Jim Hartmann and modeled after Dominic Heutelbeck's Visions in Color, and Harry Calquhoun's Visions in Putty showcase. The concept is to encourage artists, professional and amateur alike, to design and post paper miniatures for use in wargaming, based on a common theme. These designs would then be uploaded to the Brabantini Yahoo Group and Paperworlds.com site for all to share and enjoy. Every two months a new theme or army is voted on and selected. Once announced, everyone has two months to complete their designs and post them either at the MiP folder at Brabantini or at Paperworlds. When the next Miniatures in Paper begins, the Brabantini folder with everyone's designs will be transferred to the Paperworlds web site for archiving. If you do not want your file to be transferred, please delete it from the group file before the folder is transferred - a notice will be posted when the folder will be transferred.

When designing your miniatures, you are welcome to design one miniature or an army. The design can be of any troop type, ship, building, or terrain that fits within the theme. Your design can be of any scale you wish - popular scales are 6mm, 10mm, 15mm, 20mm, 25mm, and 28-30mm. Due to the international nature of the group, try to size your artwork to print within 8 inches by 11 inches - this is so it will print to both Letter and A4 size paper.

Our heartfelt gratitude goes out the generous contributors to this issue of Miniatures in Paper Showcase.

In the turmoil of the year of 1829, an elite group of Gordon Highlanders were joined together to form Her Majesty's Royal Noise Marines. The sound emitted by their bagpipes is so overpowering that opponents will collapse, sometimes with broken eardrums. Use to the poor souls who must go against them in battle!
